

HUDA PHYSICS REVIEW

July 30, 31 and August 1, 2010

Charleston, SC

The Huda Physics Review is designed for residents preparing to take the ABR physics examination. A basic knowledge of Radiological Physics will be assumed, and attendees should have read a standard text on Radiological Physics. The course will focus on medical imaging and radiation dosimetry/safety. The ABR examination will be reviewed, physics teaching hints offered, as well as two Recall Review sessions that will cover questions provided by attendees. Also included are three online practice exams (120 questions each) to be taken at the resident's leisure after completing the review course (TheTestingLab.com) that provide answers, a final score, as well as a percentile relative to other residents taking the exam.

Walter Huda, PhD is a Professor of Radiology at the Medical University of South Carolina, and the author of Review of Radiologic Physics.
